

SNS Ranks 11th on Construction Week's Power 100 List

Deemed one of the Middle East's

Most Influential Construction Leaders of 2021

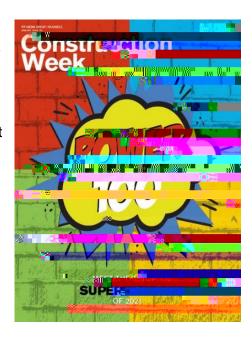

Moving up two spots, L&T's CEO & MD Mr S N Subrahmanyan has ranked 11th on Construction Week's prestigious Power 100 List released in its latest issue. The list features Middle East's 100 Most Influential Construction Leaders of 2021.

Earlier this year, Mr Subrahmanyan was appointed leadership L&T has grown to be one of the biggest contractors in the GCC Region where it has secured -and-build as well as engineering, procurement & ecently, L&T commenced construction work on Saudi ar PV project in Third ended L&T's prompt

action to mitig ate the impact of the pandemic on its environment, health & safety systems, highlighting that the Company chose to digitalise and innovate in order to re- evaluate and re-orient itself to face the new normal. It reported that L&T put in place processes to maintain real-time communication – downward, upward and horizontal – as it continues to use AI to monitor its projects.

Construction Week is Middle East's largest construction and contracting portal. Its 2021 Power 100 rankings were based on publicly available information and entries submitted concerning the performances of the companies over the past 12 months, including revenue, scale of project delivery, how they have overcome challenges and what initiatives they have taken to boost prospects, awards and future plans.